Licensed Practical Nurses – Casual

Located in the beautiful Annapolis Valley, KRRC serves persons of all ages with, intellectual, physical, behavioral, psychological, and/or psychiatric disabilities. We have an opening for LPN’s currently available at Kings Regional Rehabilitation Centre located in Waterville, Nova Scotia.

We are seeking nurses who are committed to working within a multidisciplinary team to provide a holistic plan of care and services to clients. The position provides an opportunity to build professional relationships with clients, work in a leadership role, and be a valued contributing member of the multidisciplinary team. Providing and coordinating client care, Licensed Practical Nurses will work at their scope of practice in accordance with the goals, mission and philosophy of KRRC.

KRRC is in an exciting time of transition as we partner with Department of Community Services to meet the challenge of preparing our clients to work and live as independently as possible in the community and preparing and educating our staff to encourage clients to make positive choices and promote the rights of clients in keeping with the United Nations Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities.

Reporting to Program Manager – In-Centre, this position requires a person who is able to work independently, understands client choices, and is able to build positive, respectful relationships with the ability to pro-actively resolve differing views, embrace change and thrive in a fast-paced environment with conflicting priorities.

The successful candidate will have the following:

- Must be a graduate of a recognized Licensed Practical Nursing Program and currently licensed (or eligibility for licencing) with the College of Licensed Practical Nurses of Nova Scotia
- Strong leadership abilities with a minimum of 2 years nursing experience
- Knowledgeable and experienced in areas of client care practices, as related to persons with intellectual and physical disabilities, psycho geriatrics and behavioral challenges is an asset
- Ability to promote and enhance positive, collaborative working relationships
- Excellent communication, organizational skills and the demonstrated ability to be self-directed, self-motivated
- Analytical and critical thinking skills that will enhance problem solving and decision-making
- Creativity and flexibility in approaching issues/concerns and implements best practices
- Committed to continuing education, sharing knowledge and developing the potential in others
- Demonstrated commitment to the organization’s strategic direction and to the principles of the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (UNCRPD) and DSP Transformation
- Possess strong computer skills; proficient in Word, Excel, Outlook
- Required to provide criminal record check with vulnerable sector check
- A valid Nova Scotia driver’s licence
