A Service of Kings Regional Rehabilitation Centre

CCOG Services

Services are offered to individuals and/or care givers covered under the Disability Supports Program (DSP) of the Nova Scotia Department of Community Services (DCS).

Clinicians and trained staff with specific skills, knowledge and experience respond to each accepted CCOG referral by providing on-site and/or telephone consultation as deemed most appropriate.

Services can include, but are not limited to:

- Consultation on strategies and interventions for responsive behaviors
- Consultation on complex needs
- Assessment and recommendation on further needs
- Professional development opportunities on a fee for service basis relating to topics such as:
 - Core Competencies as identified by DCS
 - Mental Health First Aid
 - Behavioral Support
 - Assistive Technology and Communication
 - Disorders experienced by the population served by DSP

Cambridge Community Outreach Group Objectives

- To offer a referral service for providers and families of individuals in the Disability Supports Program of the Western Region, based on established referral criteria
- To serve as a knowledgeable and competent resource to providers and families of individuals in need of support
- To provide assessment and recommendation for services needed to enhance independence and provide positive behavior support of the referred individuals in the place they call home
- To enhance knowledge through the dissemination of information that will alter presenting issues/concerns at hand
- To build capacity of staff and families to strengthen supportive strategies
- To bridge gaps between the individuals' needs and existing services

About CCOG and KRRC

Cambridge Community Outreach Group (CCOG), is a service for persons with disabilities in the Western Region of Nova Scotia.

Recognizing the need to enhance an Outreach Service within the Western Region of the province, CCOG was first piloted in 2011 with the support of the Nova Scotia Department of Community Services (DCS) and Kings Regional Rehabilitation Centre (KRRC).

CCOG team members are employees of KRRC, an organization that has provided care and support for persons with disabilities since 1962. Accredited with Commendation through Accreditation Canada, KRRC continues a commitment to quality through its many programs and services.

Located in Waterville, NS, KRRC offers supportive residential care and community based support for over 200 adults and children with physical and mental health challenges. Via CCOG, KRRC provides outreach services to individuals in need of assistance, and to agencies and families who support these individuals.
